FOOD AND FARMING

Educational Autumn Visits

It really has been a great summer here on the farm. We hope you have all had a fantastic summer too and are feeling ready and energised for the new academic year ahead. September signals the start of another busy season. Here's a sneak peek as to what will be happening down on the farm.

Autumn Food and Farming

Autumn is on the horizon which means its harvest time. The apples are nearly ready for picking in the orchard, the turkey chicks have hatched ready for December, and the rams are in with the ewes in preparation for some early January lambs. Finding out where our food comes from is always high on our agenda. Book a visit from Sept 25-Oct 5 and see what "Farm to Fork" activities are available (see website for details)

Do Cows Drink Milk?

Do Cows Drink Milk? Why not come along and see for yourselves. Our daily milking demonstration is included in the cost of your admission. During your visit you will be able to meet Dipsy our dairy cow as she takes centre stage for the demonstration throughout September and October. What are you doing to celebrate World School Milk Day on September 26th?
